To All Visitors

In attendance upon the Vermont State Teachers' Association we extend greetings, trusting that each one will co-operate with us, in a measure at least, by visiting this store and becoming better acquainted with its merchandise and methods.

We are proud of this store and want every citizen of the State to feel proud of it also. Recognition of the excellent quality of the merchandise, the unusual character as well as the great extent of stocks always on hand-is necessary in order that confidence be established and pride, that is worth while, follow.

In all departments are

Exceptional Fall Exhibits

The ready-to-wear section confines itself to no piece of apparel, but portrays the latest modes in Suits, Coats, Blouses, Separate Skirts, Small Furs and Fur Garments, Petticoats and Gowns of every description for every hour of the day and evening. For special mention as examples are-

The Fashionable Velour Suits in various styles, one of Burgundy shade being finely pleated in the body part, both back and front, belted and trimmed in the back with buttoned tabs attached to the belt at intervals. The skirt hangs straight with fullness in the back confined under a girdle-like yoke. Some are self trimmed, others velvet or fur trimmed.

Handsome Velveteen Suits are especially smart, one having a plain deep girdled skirt with the bottom of the coat rounded on the sides to match shape of pockets. The coat is lined with satin brocade and trimmed effectively with skunk fur.

A Beautiful Chiffon Velvet Suit is of deep violet, the coat somewhat in Russian blouse style boasts no trimming save a few handsome buttons and a broad beaver collar: the skirt follows the straight lines now the vogue.

A Black Suit is exploited in Chiffon Broadcloth and Panne Velvet, the velvet being very cleverly introduced in the coat while showing the merest touch in the skirt.

Modish Millinery SMARTLY STYLED HATS

Our showing of fall hats has been enhanced by the addition of some entirely different style ideas, individuality being an especially strong feature.
